We all have biases that shape the way we see the world and the people in it. In a school setting, those unconscious attitudes and stereotypes can have unintended impacts on the students we serve. Now more than ever, it’s important to be aware of those biases and how they affect our students. That’s why “Implicit Bias” is the topic of our next VCSBA Dinner Meeting on February 9. Join us for this thought-provoking discussion led by a representative from the Social Justice Foundation.

Don’t miss out on this exceptional learning opportunity!
